About Rutgers

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey is the premier public university of New Jersey and one of the most highly regarded institutions of higher education in the U.S. Chartered in 1766 as Queen’s College, Rutgers is the nation’s eighth oldest institution of higher learning. Located in New Brunswick, Piscataway, Newark and Camden, Rutgers University hosts more than 67,000 students and nearly 13,000 faculty. Rutgers is a vibrant academic community committed to the highest standards of teaching, research, and service. Rutgers is a member of the Association of American Universities, an organization of 62 leading public and private comprehensive research universities in North America.

Why Rutgers

- Rutgers is located in New Jersey — a diverse multi-cultural state that is a microcosm of 21st-century America
- Proximity to downtown New Brunswick with easy access to New York City, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington D.C.

Huamin Research Center

Program Manager: Sibylle Pearce
Phone: (001) 848-932-3063
Email: sibylle.pearce@rutgers.edu

Rutgers-China Bridge Program in Social Work and Public Policy 2016
Rutgers-China Bridge Program in Social Work and Public Policy
August 01 - 19, 2016

Bridge To success
multi-cultural interactions
American innovation
world-class education
social work and policy
effective communication

Program Description
The Rutgers-China Bridge Program at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, offers Chinese university students an inclusive recreational overview of the American social work and public policy theories and practices at Rutgers’ prestigious School of Social Work.

This program is designed to train students who come from social work, public policy, public administration, and other management field backgrounds, and who are eager to become better skilled in English and experience what a top American university has to offer. The program consists of a series of talks at the School of Social Work as well as the opportunity to practice English skills. Students will also be introduced and immersed into the Rutgers student life through interacting with Rutgers students and faculty members.

Program Cost:
- Talks on American social work and public policy innovation, including development and challenges of social work and public policy in the United States, and innovative ways to combat these challenges
- Practicing English language skills
- Visits to American universities, excursions and outings, and co-curricular student activities
- Student orientation and closing ceremony, award of certificate of completion
- All meals and housing, local transportation, social events, airport pick-up
- Trips to New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington D.C., West Point and Woodbury, NY

Eligibility for Participation

Academic background:
The student must be from a reputable 4 year college or university.
The student must be in good academic standing.
The student must be enrolled in a major in social work, public policy, public administration, and other management fields.

English proficiency:
The student must be proficient in the English language. Students who have taken and passed CET 4 are preferred; however, for those who have not taken the exam, a transcript that includes the English classes s/he has taken is required.
The student must submit full balance by May 20, 2016 for visa application invitation letter. (Full balance will be refunded if visa application is not successful.)

Disclaimer: The Huamin Research Center of Rutgers School of Social Work and the Rutgers China Office reserve the right to change the curricula, dates, and other activities associated with the Rutgers China Bridge Program in Social Work and Public Policy. The provisions of this program do not constitute a contract, express or implied, between any applicant, student, or faculty member and Rutgers University.