Call for Proposals

Mapping New Directions in International Research
Second Annual Graduate Student Symposium

Wednesday, March 28, 2018
1:00 pm – 6:00 pm
Livingston Student Center, 84 Joyce Kilmer Avenue, Piscataway Township, NJ

Deadline for Submission: Friday, March 2, 2018

Rutgers Global invites submissions for the second annual graduate student symposium dedicated to “Mapping New Directions in International Research.” The symposium will provide a unique opportunity for graduate students to share their international research projects with faculty, university administrators, other students, and members of the public.

All Rutgers students enrolled in graduate programs in New Brunswick, Camden, Newark, and RBHS who are conducting international research in any disciplinary or interdisciplinary field are eligible to submit proposals to participate in the symposium.

Submission Guidelines

Please send an email to Stephanie Perez at sperez@global.rutgers.edu by Friday, March 2, 2018; include the following information and identify “Graduate Symposium 2018” in the subject line:

- Name
- Graduate Program and School
- Name of faculty advisor
- Cell phone and email address
- Title of presentation
- 300-word description of presentation
- Format of presentation:

I. Flash Presentations
   Presentations are a rapid-fire, engaging performance of 15 image-rich slides. Each slide shows for exactly 20 seconds before automatically moving to the next. Total presentation time is a speedy 5 minutes. In reviewing abstracts, the program committee will be looking for evidence of students’ ability to describe their international research projects to a general audience.

II. Posters
   Posters are an interactive format that allows students to have substantive discussions about their research projects with interested colleagues. Rutgers Global will pay for the poster printing.

III. Other Format
   If you would like to present in another format—i.e., short film, multimedia, etc.—please let us know so we can try to accommodate your submission.
